

Commercial Real Estate Analyst

It can be intimidating starting out in a new career, especially in commercial brokerage: a commission-based and highly competitive industry that requires you to be completely responsible for yourself. If you're looking to start your brokerage career while having a safety net with salary and benefits, Kiser Group's analyst position may be right for you. With an average annual sales volume of $200 million dollars, we are the market leaders of our industry. Kiser Group provides you with all the tools and training you need to create a smooth transition into the commercial brokerage industry.

Develop, practice and enhance your skills through role plays, coached live calls and training. You'll be mentored by senior brokers where you'll learn the latest in commercial real estate strategy, analyzing data and positioning a property for sale. In addition to trainings with some of the leading brokers in the market, analysts will have the opportunity to

- join in property tours
- meet with clients
- learn about the latest financing from banks and financial institutions
- network with title companies

We understand that starting out, you will need time to learn the industry, develop your skills and build your network. We will provide you the financial stability you will need during this time. We offer

- base salary
- benefits
- paid time off

To qualify for the analyst position, the following are required:

- IL real estate license
- Bachelor degree
